

USE GRESOLVENT Instantly removes Greases & Dirt CHASSE D'ART

The Leeds Mercury

The Popular North-of-England Illustrated Newspaper.

"Tribrall" THE OIL FOR MORRIS CARS.

No. 27,177—ESTABLISHED 1718.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1926.

DAILY—ONE PENNY.

MRS. CHRISTIE AT HARROGATE UNDER A FALSE NAME. IDENTIFIED BY HUSBAND LAST NIGHT. "SHE DOES NOT KNOW SHE IS MY WIFE." ASTONISHING STORY OF A DUAL PERSONALITY. A HYDRO GUEST: VISITS TO SHOPS AND CINEMAS. CALLED "MRS. CHRISTIE" AS A JOKE.

Mrs. Agatha Christie, the writer of detective stories, who disappeared mysteriously near her home in Surrey eleven days ago, was found last night by her husband at the Harrogate Hydro. Her husband says she does not know she is Mrs. Christie, for whom all England has been hunting.

READING DETECTIVE STORIES.

THE SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF "THE LEEDS MERCURY." Harrogate, Tuesday Night. Mrs. Agatha Christie was found in the deserted lounge of the Harrogate Hydro as she stepped out on an exquisite evening gown. She was seen by her husband on the corner her husband had been waiting for her. She was seen by her husband on the corner her husband had been waiting for her.

THE WOMAN WHO CAUSED ALL THE MYSTERY.

Mrs. Agatha Christie, the missing novelist, who has been found sojourning at a Harrogate hotel. The case of Mrs. Christie presents a problem of fascinating interest, or even more interesting to the scientist than that presented by her disappearance.

THE HUNT FOR MRS. CHRISTIE. PLANES, TRACTOR, & DIVERS CALLED IN. £1,000 COST OF SEARCH.

No disappearance in recent years has created such widespread and absorbing interest as that of Mrs. Christie. The day-by-day story of the great search has been followed with intense interest.

PIQUANT MYSTERIES OF THE PAST. "ANGEL IN WHITE" AND LEEDS PARSON.

Mysterious disappearances of varying importance and interest, have a habit of cropping up periodically. Many of these have created the most extraordinary concerns in the public mind. Perhaps the most glaring of all during the present century was the case of Violet Cluesworth.

EXAPERATED SEARCHERS. Contrast With Methods in a Yorkshire Case.

The prevailing feeling in London to-night when the news came through that Mrs. Christie had been found at a Harrogate hotel was one of intense exasperation that so much money and time should have been wasted on futile searches in Surrey and the London district.

HAS MRS. CHRISTIE A DUAL PERSONALITY?

HOW ONE SELF MAY OUST ANOTHER.

THE MEDICAL SIDE OF HER CASE

BY THE MEDICAL CORRESPONDENT OF "THE LEEDS MERCURY." The case of Mrs. Christie presents a problem of fascinating interest, or even more interesting to the scientist than that presented by her disappearance.

YORKSHIRE "CLUES."

The license of The Old Thatch, at Teck, near Weobley, stated last week that he believed that Mrs. Christie had tea at the "Clues" on the 11th inst. A woman, he says, drove up in a motor-car with a man, and the two had tea.

MRS. CHRISTIE'S BOOKS.

Mrs. Christie is the daughter of the late Mr. Frederick Miller, of New York, and of Mrs. Miller, of Toronto. In 1914 she married Colonel Archibald Christie, C.B.D., who served in France with the Royal Fusiliers during the War.

DIAMONDS The rarity and value of the Diamond, the most beautiful of Precious Gems, is in its whiteness, combined with flawless purity and scintillating lustre and brilliance. WESPECIALISE IN DIAMOND ENGAGEMENT RINGS. Set in Platinum from 50/- to £100. MAGNIFICENT CHOICE OF NEW DESIGNS. See our window display—all marked in plain figures. DYSON & SONS 24/26, BRIGGATE, LEEDS, (Cross Bar Lane)